Message From the Board Chair

January 2006

Honourable Minister Tom Christensen
Minister of Aboriginal Relations and Reconciliation
PO Box 9042 STN Provincial Government
Victoria B.C. V8W 9E2

Dear Minister Christensen:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the First Peoples' Heritage, Language and Culture Council, I am pleased to submit our 2006/07 – 2008/09 Service Plan.

The FPHLCC was established in 1990 to support British Columbia First Nations communities and organizations in revitalizing local cultures and languages, and to provide leadership, support, and advice to the provincial government on how best to ensure the preservation of B.C.'s unique and rich First Nations cultures and languages.

Our work includes administering effective funding programs, conducting research, building capacity, tools, resources and partnerships, and visioning, planning, and providing support to First Nations communities, arts and language organizations, and to government.

We continue to maintain existing programs as well as expand services, especially in support of the grassroots work of our language and culture stakeholders. This past year we began implementing recommendations arising from our 2004 AADA (Aboriginal Arts Development Program) review. One of the resulting actions is a capacity-development initiative to provide increased workshops, consulting and partnerships to create opportunities for artists and arts groups to make strategic connections and gain key skills for their professional development.

Also in keeping with our goal to provide increased support and resources to our stakeholders, we have successfully completed a web-based Artist Tool Kit, and a comprehensive, web-based Language Tool Kit. These sites provide resources for a range of professional development activities, from proposal writing and portfolio development, to ongoing news and networking.

We have just completed a Language Program Needs Assessment—a review of provincial and federal Aboriginal language funding over the past five years, which includes an analysis of where monies are being spent, what projects have resulted, and recommendations for improving administrative practices so we can provide ongoing high-quality support for the First Nations language programs.

Finally, in cooperation with all the First Nations culture and language stakeholders in B.C., FPHLCC staff have been working hard to lay the groundwork for a thorough strategic planning process, and this February we will undertake a visioning session with a world-renowned expert in cultural mapping.

Our work to support First Nations languages is at a critical stage. We have a very tight window of opportunity. All of B.C.'s First Nations languages are "endangered" (with 1500 or less fluent speakers remaining). If we are to preserve our languages and cultural practices, we must act quickly. Our Elders are aging. Significant financial resources and capacity are needed immediately to meet this challenge.

We are encouraged by the positive working environment and commitment to revitalize and preserve First Nations languages and cultures expressed by Premier Campbell in his vision of a "New Relationship" with B.C.'s First Peoples, and we look forward to the opportunities and challenges we will address together.

Sincerely,

Tyrone McNeil
Chair, FPHLCC

ACCOUNTABILITY STATEMENT

The 2006/07 – 2008/09 FPHLCC Service Plan was prepared under my direction, in accordance with the Budget Transparency and Accountability Act. I am accountable for the contents of the plan, including the selection of performance measures and targets. The plan is consistent with the government's strategic priorities and overall Strategic Plan. All significant assumptions, policy decisions and identifiable risks (as of December 2005) have been considered in this plan. I am accountable for ensuring that the First Peoples' Heritage, Language and Culture Council achieves its specific objectives identified in the plan, and for measuring and reporting actual performance.

Chair, FPHLCC

About FPHLCC

OUR HISTORY AND MANDATE

The FPHLCC is a unique crown corporation. It was created by the government in 1990 to administer the First Peoples' Heritage, Language and Culture Program, with a mandate to:

- Provide funding to cultural and language programs
- Support and advise government on initiatives, programs and services related to First Nations heritage, language and culture
- Advise government on the preservation and fostering of First Nations languages and other aspects of cultural development of First Peoples throughout B.C.

OUR VISION AND MISSION

Our vision is one where "B.C. First Nations languages, cultures and arts are thriving, accessible and available to the First Nations of British Columbia, and the cultural knowledge expressed through First Nations languages, cultures and arts is recognized, valued and embraced by all citizens in B.C."

Our mission is to provide leadership in British Columbia for the revitalization of First Nations languages, culture and arts. Our role is to monitor the status of First Nations languages, cultures and arts, and to develop strategies which assist communities to recover and sustain their heritage. We serve our stakeholders by providing programs and initiatives for language revitalization and by providing arts and culture programs.

FPHLCC GOVERNANCE

Each of B.C.'s 24 Tribal Councils elects a representative to the FPHLCC Advisory Committee. Acting as liaisons, the Advisory Committee members relay information on FPHLCC programs and initiatives to their communities. The Advisory Committee members elect nine representatives to the governing Board of Directors, and three representatives appointed by the Ministry of Aboriginal Relations and Reconciliation from urban First Nations organizations, the First Nations business community, and the provincial government.

OUR ORGANIZATIONAL VALUES

Accountability: The Executive Director, Board and staff are directly accountable to our stakeholders and to First Nations in B.C.

Transparency: Program procedures and decisions will be open and transparent.

Results-based: Program delivery will be efficient and outcome-based.

Collaboration: Programs will be coordinated with other service providers and language groups to maximize benefits.

Integrity: All work will be done with an overriding focus on cultural integrity and honesty.

Inclusive: Language, art, and culture programs will be open to all qualified First Nations individuals and groups throughout B.C.

FUNDING DELIVERED BY FPHLCC

The BC Language Initiative (BCLI)— Provincial / $600,000 annually

Funded through the First Citizens Fund. Supports projects to revitalize B.C. First Nations languages through documentation, language classes, immersion programs, material and curriculum development and promotion. First Nations communities and organizations are eligible to submit proposals.

The Aboriginal Languages Initiative (ALI)— Federal / $200,000 annually to B.C.*

Funded by the Department of Canadian Heritage. Funds are distributed through the Assembly of First Nations and then to provincial and territorial delivery organizations. Funds support community and regional projects which maintain, revitalize and promote Aboriginal languages.

NOTE: This federal program ends in 2005/06. We anticipate a replacement program which will continue to provide federal funding for aboriginal languages, however there are no details available at this time.

The Aboriginal Arts Development Awards Program (AADA)—Provincial; available funds varies—$370,000 for 2006 (combined funds from BC Arts Council and Arts Now partners). This year, funds are being distributed to projects that support the creative or professional development of emerging Aboriginal artists and/or the sharing of traditional arts skills and knowledge, and are focused on arts organizations.

Our Strategic Context

KEY CHALLENGES

- An extremely limited window of opportunity for effective action.
Due to the rapid decline in the number of fluent speakers of First Nations languages in B.C., this is the most critical and urgent challenge facing our organization. For example, in the X_aadaa Kil language, only 30 fluent speakers remain, and their average age is 78 years.
- Quantity and diversity of First Nations languages and cultures in B.C.
We have 40 distinct languages in our province (compared to 60 languages in all of Canada's other provinces and territories combined). There are thousands of endangered cultural practices and traditional art forms unique to British Columbia and found nowhere else in the world.
- Insufficient funding to meet urgent needs for language and cultural revitalization at local, language group, and provincial levels.
From 2000 - 2005, FPHLCC received requests for $10 million in funding, but had only $4 million to disburse.
- Inequities in allocation of federal funding for Aboriginal language initiatives. B.C. has 60% of Canada's Aboriginal languages, but to date has received only 10% of total national funding.
- Other high-priority needs in First Nations communities, and limited resources. Socio-economic issues such as health, education and treaty issues compete with culture and language for limited human and financial resources.
- Increasing demands on FPHLCC staff and programs. Expectations are high and being able to maintain acceptable service levels is an ongoing challenge. A second, ongoing challenge is how to balance the needs for provincial administrative infrastructure and the need to distribute funds directly to communities.

KEY OPPORTUNITIES

- Use of technology for recording and preserving cultural and language knowledge. Increased usability and availability of technology (especially computers, software, and the internet) has made recording and archiving of cultural knowledge accessible and efficient for even the smallest of communities. The internet makes it possible to share cultural knowledge with community members, even if they are geographically distant.
- Increasing numbers of First Nations individuals and organizations with skills and experience in First Nations arts, language and culture revitalization who can provide role models, leadership and technical expertise. These individuals and organizations are our partners and can lead and support cultural and language revitalization in their communities.
- A positive working environment for collaboration between First Nations and the B.C. government. Premier Campbell's declared firm commitment to work with B.C. First Nations to revitalize culture and preserve languages encourages an atmosphere of trust and cooperation—the foundation for successful joint action.
- Possibilities for increased collaboration and partnerships with diverse stakeholders and partners. FPHLCC has the experience and skills to facilitate cooperation and coordination of the many stakeholders and partners, and to provide leadership for developing long-term and comprehensive strategies for B.C. First Nations culture and language revitalization.
- The 2010 Olympics. There is great potential for the First Nations Olympic Participation Committee to support First Nations arts, culture and language initiatives in order to feature and celebrate the diversity of BC's First Peoples to a worldwide audience during the Olympic Games. There is a further opportunity for FPHLCC to support legacies created by the games long after the games are over.
- Potential to lead at national and international levels by modeling innovation and best practices in culture and language revitalization through continued reflection and analysis on past efforts, and through actively seeking strategic partnerships and conceiving of and delivering effective programs and resources.

SUMMARY

While a number of opportunities exist, increased funding is urgently needed to meet identified needs within the short window of time available for effective action. This is especially true for language preservation and revitalization, which is dependent on a knowledge transfer from Elders, who are ageing and will very soon be no longer with us. Already eight of B.C.'s 40 First Nations languages are extinct—there are no remaining fluent speakers. The other 32 languages are endangered and time is running out.

PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS

FPHLCC employs a number of strategies and tools to measure performance and to provide feedback on service delivery. These include:

Formal Program Reviews

Conducted by independent experts, using data collected from program applicants, needs assessments, focus groups, individual applicant interviews, Peer review committee recommendations and interviews and review of PRC process. Policy review committee reviews Board, administration and program policies annually.

Ongoing Feedback From FPHLCC Advisory Committee

Advisory Committee representatives from all B.C. Tribal Councils, and a representative from the FNEC meet at FPHLCC's Annual General Meeting. The Board of Directors present the FPHLCC Annual Report and the Advisory Committee members provide feedback on the administration and delivery of FPHLCC programs in their territories. The Advisory Committee also advises the Board on policy development.

Collection and Analysis of Statistics on Client Use of Services

FPHLCC collects statistics to evaluate usage and effectiveness of programming. These include funding application statistics, needs assessments, web site hits, and documentation of contacts and referrals by staff.

Focus Groups

FPHLCC seeks input from focus groups to provide feedback on new resources and on service delivery.

Online Data Collection

FPHLCC tracks usage and collects feedback online through website hits, forums and blogs. A Map of B.C. First Nations Languages in development will house data on language group statistic by 2007.

Annual Performance Reviews

The FPHLCC Board reports to the FPHLCC Advisory Committee at the AGM and gathers feedback. Management and staff undergo an annual formal review process and there is an annual Board evaluation process.
